Officer of the Year

Dwayne McAtee

Dwayne's response is a lot higher than it has been. Most of his response has been a long drive to get to the call. He has the longest trip to respond and does not complain about it. He takes care of anything assigned to him and whatever he wants to help on. He has worked to provide better, more focused training that is highly needed in our departments.

Firefighter of the Year

Alex Cason

Alex's response has been up to if others are willing to pick him up. There have been structure fire calls where he just went and set up the rehab without being told to. He is learning the apparatuses. He is willing to learn things that he doesn't know. His captain specifically mentioned several times how he has improved throughout the year.

Member of the Year

Alison “Marie” Reeder

Marie helps with everything that she can for the department. This is the first year that she joined the triple digit club. She is willing to assist on scenes when she sees others struggle. She has really stepped up as our only Senior Firefighter this year and we look forward to seeing what she makes of her position.

Mentor of the Year (New this year)

Marion “Ike” Watts

Ike has been a mentor to the Lieutenant and to Firefighters. His experience with the trucks and gear has helped to guide and shape the new firefighters' ability to learn how they can best assist with scenes before they can make entry at structure fires and how they can best assist in the fields on natural cover fires. He is friendly and dedicated; a true shining star for our departments.
